RECEPTION AT THE EXECUTIVE MANNION.

Yesterday afternoon the ladies of the Presidential Mansion, Mrs. PATERSON and Mrs. Stoven, daughters of President Joneson, gave their first drawing-room reception for the season. The rigorous weather did not prevent a large attendance of lades and gentlemen, from the highest official and social circles. The reception took place in the Red Room, which presented a brilliant appearance when filled with the beauty and ashion gathered at the capital at the present time. Mrs. PATTERSON and Mrs. STOVES were attired with that simplicity and good taste which made so favorable an impression upon the visitors at the Executive Mansion last winter. Mrs. PATTERSON wore a choco was of pearl color, trimmed with black lace. The East Room having been reconstructed, was thrown open, and the visitors made the first promenade of the season in that magnificent apartment. The reception was a bril-

The action of the House on Mr. Ashley's motion looking to the impeachment of the President will create a feeling of surprise throughout the country. The haste exhibited by the advocate of the movement, if not indecent is at least unwise, and we trust the sober second thought of the representatives of the people will lead them to adopt more prudent counsels. The country, we are persuaded, is not prepared to sustain a measure so fraught with serious consequences as this. It would be well if our Solons in Congress would heed the ancient maxim "Festival lente" and hasten slowly in the prosecution of an affair of so great magnitude.— Worcester (Mass.) Eve. Gazette.

Prize Fight Between Collyer and McGlade.

The prize fight between Sax, Collyen, of Baltimore, and Jounny McGlade, of New York, is to come of this morning, wind, weather and so forth permitting. The arena of the conflict is to be pitched within ten miles of the spot where THAD. STRYRNS recently went into the ring against CAMERON and was knocked out of time on the first round. Here will be a fine opportunity for those whose tastes incline them thereunto, to stand upon the snow couple of hours while the ring is pitched, and en will stand around the ring, withstanding the rigors of the weather, while the scientifipummelists belabor each other to their hearts' content. The ladder by which the pugilist climbs to fame has thirty seconds only between the rounds, and therefore, as Solon Sursals says, they are kept "putty bixxy" while it lasts. The Sale of Criminals in Maryland In an article upon the subject named above the Cincinnati Commercial makes the

It is a little remarkable that Mr. Sumner who is usually alive to whatever affects the interests of the freedmen, should have as carelessly drawn up the thirteenth article of the Constitution as to make it possible for Maryland to enforce the old code without collision with any provision of the Constitution. Yet as will be seen from the stitution. for Maryland to enforce the old code without collision with any provision of the Constitution. Yet, as will be seen from the wording of the article, Mr. Sumner not only did this, but left it to be plainly inferred that a party duly convicted of crime may,
as a punishment, be sold into temporary slavery or "involuntary servitude." Had he designed to provide for such sale he could not have more clearly done it than by the implication of the language of this article of the Constitution. Here is the first section of the article:

of the article:
"Sec. 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary
"Sec. 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary

"Sec. 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction." Of course Mr. Summer never intended that such a construction should be put upon this article as would allow any State to authorize the sale of criminals for the period of their sentence. But it shows how carefully such constitutional provisions should be drawn. It looks like bungling to resort to legislation to remedy a constitutional defect; and there would be a loud hue and cry were a case to have been carried to the Supreme Court to be determined as a constitutional question, whether or not the execution of the law in Maryland was a violation of any provision of whether or not the execution of the law in Maryland was a violation of any provision of the Constitution. The court, without regard to the political consequence, would be constrained to render a decision in favor of the Maryland code, since there is nothing in the letter of the Constitution prohibiting such disposition of persons convicted of crime.

Terrible Destitution.

alsville (Ky.) Courier of the 11th nstant has the following story of suffering: We have not, for several years past, heard of a case that showed as plainly the amount of destitution now existing among the poor of our city and the South in general, as that of our city and the South in general, as that which came to our ears yesterday. A philanthropic gentleman, who resides in the lower part of the city, was on his way out in the country yesterday afternoon, on the old Salt river road, during the driving snow storm, when he discovered a woman crossing the fence into a wood pasture just outside the city limits. She was thinly clad, shivering in the crue blast, and gave evidence of severe destitution and hard living. Not seeing any house near, he wondered to himself where the woman was going; and calling her, questioned her as to the cause of her being out, in the storm. She resulted by evasive questioned her as to the cause of her being out in the storm. She replied by evasive answers, but on his questioning her more closely, she told him that she lived with an-other woman in an old hollow tree in the pasture, and had been staying there for over four moreths aged.

They said they were from Cross Keys, near-Atlanta, Georgia, and had come up to this city some months ago seeking honorable employment, but had failed in their efforts, and had been since that time earning a live-lihood by gathering shucks, doing washing, &c., meeting misfortune with a heroism worthy of the noblest of women. court, we have the following important in-telligence:

The French troops are descending en masse to Vera Cruz.

Gen. Castelneau, the French Minister, went to see the Emperor at Puebla, and ob-tained from him the promise of abdicating in twenty days. It appears that the answer of the Liberal chiefs to the invitation sent them for co-operation leaves no hope that a Congress can be had, and the Emperor must abdicate notwithstanding. In the meantime Congress can be had, and the Emperor must abdicate notwithstanding. In the meantime the Emperor is governed by his confessor, Pere Fischer, who has assumed the reins of government. Marquee and Mirama are siezing usen and horses wherever they can lay hands on them, in order to fill the ranks of their army. The Liberals are all around the city. The Americans are all desirous of getting away, and are all taking passports. The Liberals must get possession of the city before long, but it is the last effort of the reactionists, and it is feared it will be a desperate one.

A daughter of David Mitchell, of Flint, Michigan, eighteen pears of age, was selled on the street on Tuesday night by a man and woman, and forced to swallow a large does of arsenic. She now lies in a critical condition. It is supposed that jealousy was the cause of this singular outrage.

In CINCINNATI the waiters of a hotel quit work because the proprietors refused to take again into their employ a discharged servant. They have twenty five days' wages due them when they gave up their places. Landlords refused to pay. Buit was brought and the court ruled that the waiters uld go without their money.

THE Bishop of Verdun, in Prance, recent-deseased, died from over-eating. He was a curmand of the first class, and the amount of food gourmand of the nest state, and the amount of food consumed by him in a single day was autilient atmost for the larder of a small hotel. When he dined out he was always accompanied by his servant, who stood behind his chair and signalised to the host when his master had eaten to within a points of apoplary.

WENDELL PRILLERS wants him [General Grant to do justice sword in hand, which we ferently hope he will not, as when soldiers in a republic begin this sort of thing they are apt to keep repusite segm this sort of thing they are apt to neep at it, and do not only justice but a great deal more. If Mr. Phillips finds himself before he dies carried off the platform by a corporal's guard, of which there is, of course, no probability, he will not be the first over-sager reformer who got an ever-dose nial reports large numbers of buffalo going into Platte valley from the South. As the buffalo never willingly travet northward in winter, the Denver News believes the Indians are behind them, with Platte. All the previous Indian raids in the win-ter have been preceded by buffale, and the News apprehended a recurrence of the Indian massacree of two years ago.
